IN THE INTEREST OF HARMONY

Allen Dulles, head of the Central Intelligence Agency is retiring. Korea.

Regarding the reasons given, it is in the interest of peace and harmony. We have never approved of carry-overs from one administration to another. It creates discord.

The Central Intelligence Agency is the most controversial of all federal departments. It operates under such secrecy that Congress knows nothing of its activities. It is only accountable to the executive branch of the government.

But its mistakes are soon known by that is more vulnerable, more important, never publicized. There is no position everyone and its accurate findings are tant and the errors as fatal as in the CIA.

The President must assume the responsibility, he also depends on the CIA for the information from which he makes his decisions. Allen Dulles has been a controversial figure since the U-2 incident, then came Cuba, and

You will never know of the right "guesses" for this game of power politics is dangerous from every point of view. You cannot know for the CIA is top secret. The U-2 flights had been going on for some time. You heard of them the first time when the plane was shot down.

It is reported that the Communist agents stand outside the gate and get the numbers off the cars as those employees enter, in order to find out who works there.

But the head man is the one who is responsible. And Allen Dulles has been a controversial figure since the President took office. It is in the interest of harmony for the administration in power to make its own appointments. We know Mr. Dulles stayed at the President's request. But it is now time for him to go. With the Berlin crisis building up, a new man in this all important position could help ease the situation.
